Advice and

Guidance

National Apprenticeship Service

Overview

There are believed to be in excess of 1,000,000 people employed within the advice and guidance sector and many thousands more who offer advice and guidance as part of their work role.

Many job roles involve providing information, advice and/or guidance to members of the public or to other members of staff within an organisation. This includes the Connexions, Next Step and Learndirect services, call centres, visitor centres, customer/client services, help-lines, citizens advice, careers guidance, and so on.

As call centres grow, with well over 1,500 different advice lines, there is a further demand for general advice. With more and more organisations giving advice on a daily basis it is also thought to be an alternative to customer services.

Starting Salary (once qualified) – will vary depending on role and setting.

What is an Apprenticeship

An Apprenticeship is a mix of real work and learning. Apprentices earn a wage and get experience whilst working towards a number of qualifications. An Apprenticeship follows a Level 2 programme and can lead onto an Advanced Apprenticeship which is a Level 3 programme.

Example Job Roles as an Apprentice

- Working within Connexions Service – this will be a recognised entry route
- Support worker, peer mentor
- Voluntary and Government funded Advice Services
- Staffing telephone help-lines, supporting outreach workers
- Employment and Library Services
- Visitor Centre Personnel

Apprenticeship Framework

There are a number of elements to each Apprenticeship and this is called the framework. Each Apprenticeship framework has three main strands:

- competence based element
- technical element
- skills element

The three strands are sometimes accompanied by additional qualifications to give the most relevant skills and knowledge required for the job.

Competence Element

Apprenticeship – NVQ Level 2 Advice and Guidance Support

Advanced – NVQ Level 3 Advice and Guidance
